Description

I am not a communist, but I am an anticapitalist

As far as Communism goes, if you call a bunch of Communists selling off their country's assets for their own avaricious and political gain a "collapse", consider this.

What about Great Depression, the worst systemic banking crisis of the 20th century, or the 2008 International Banking Crisis, whereby we are left paying the price, whilst the people who caused it still live it up in Kensington & Chelsea with their Oligarch mates.

The fucking irony is that remaining so called Communist countries are now playing the Capitalist game better than the Imperialist dogs who call themselves Capitalists.

If neither this country nor the US of Assholes can see that China is pissing over them, whilst they profess to be world leaders in that game, take my advice and learn to speak Chinese before it's too late.

Africans have been for years "Banana republics" I hear you cry! Well maybe so, but they are Chinese bananas.
