

Farage tells unions to ditch Labour for racist Reform

Description

default watermark

farage

Nigel Farage has called on the Unions to ditch Labour and instead join far-right Reform UK.

Reform is now the party of workers.

Today I am inviting trade unions to apply for affiliation with Reform UK.

We also welcome union leaders to attend our national conference in September and engage in discussions about the policies of a future Reform government.

pic.twitter.com/v9dRHmMwU4

â?? Nigel Farage MP (@Nigel_Farage) June 9, 2026

Farage has never been a member of a union. Instead, he has spent most of his career spouting hatred at them.

Nigel Farage hasnâ??t been a member of a union his whole life. Heâ??s had nothing but borderline hatred for them his entire career. Heâ??s also quoted as saying â??Reform would go to war with these left wing teaching unionsâ??.

Meanwhile councillors like @DarrenGrimes constantly airâ??! <https://t.co/mcBIPmgr8M>

â?? Reform Party UK Exposed  (@reformexposed) June 9, 2026

If any union accepts his offer, there is no doubt that it will eventually destroy both the union and its membersâ?? rights. That sounds a bit like a turkey voting for Christmas.

Farage inviting the Unions to get into bed with him and Reform UK because they are "the party of working people".

If any union accepts this offer it will destroy them and their members rights, perhaps that's his plan? I would leave my union if it did would you? #Farage #ReformUK
pic.twitter.com/QtOy7KVV8Z

The Rev. Anton Mittens 🌹👮🎓 (@MittensOff) June 9, 2026

Farage voting against workers' rights

Farage claims that Reform is the party of working people. However, the reality is that Farage has consistently voted against workers' rights.

Trade union representative here: ARE THEY FUCK FOR THE WORKING PEOPLE.

<https://t.co/B8FDP1t6d3>

SaltyTech (@Captin__Cavenham) June 9, 2026

From the man and party who voted against the Employment Rights Act "this is farcical.

What was it about the law which repeals vast swathes of the Tories' punitive Trade Union Act 2016 and makes it far easier to get unions recognised in a workplace you didn't like Nigel? <https://t.co/LUMQhJlKY3>

Cllr Tom Creswell (@tom_creswell_) June 9, 2026

Reform wants to scrap the Equality Act. This would threaten parental leave rights, along with job security for half a million pregnant people.

Reform opposed the Employment Rights Bill & would scrap day one sick pay & parental leave rights.

Farage was against increasing the minimum wage & defended Thatcher causing a "little pain" with huge job losses in working class communities.

Reform are not on the side of workers. <https://t.co/TSpttGE86e>

Danny Adilypour (@dannypadilypour) June 9, 2026

Farage was also against increasing the minimum wage. Which is hilarious given how much he takes home each year from his nine jobs. He takes home over £600k every single year "so much for a man of the people!"

Reform is the party of corporate interests

Eleven trade unions are affiliated to the Labour Party. Having said that, a recent poll suggested there is growing support among some trade union members for Reform UK.

However, leaders of the TUC, GMB, Unison and Community all hit back at Farage. They said that Reform was the party of "corporate interests".

In an interview with the Times, Farage said union leaders were spending members' money on policies that members do not support. He added:

Reform now runs councils that employ tens of thousands of unionised workers: bin men and women, social workers, care staff, school support workers.

Unlike the snobbish Tories of old, we will never treat organised labour with contempt. If you represent working people in this country, my door is open. The doors of every Reform council leader from Southampton to Sandwell are open.

Reform has never, and will never be, the party of

default watermark

Reform is not the party of workers.

You hate trade unions. You hate workers rights. You hate the minimum wage.

How can a party of greedy corrupt multi-millionaires and failed Tories who want to strip away our rights, make us poorer and privatise the NHS, ever be on our side.

<https://t.co/BZ9KSSSmlu>

Oliver Bennett (@OBennettSocial) June 9, 2026

Does Nige think that if he's racist enough and incites enough riots, everyone will just forget about the £5m donation and the house he didn't pay stamp duty on?

Why won't you allow yourself to be interviewed? Why are you running away from the scandal of your £5mil "gift" or should we say bribe? #Farage #FarageRiots #ReformUK #Brexit #RejoinEU <https://t.co/5Ms3KSpeS1>

WeAreTheDeeplyUnhelpful48%  #FBPE #RejoinEU  (@Budfrog) June 9, 2026

It's actually insulting to working-class people that Farage thinks he can spout racism and the working class will jump into his arms. But you can't claim to be the party of working people whilst simultaneously voting against workers' rights.

A man of the people wouldn't take millions from crypto billionaires, pay as little tax as possible, and consistently vote against stronger employment rights for workers.

There is absolutely no doubt that if he got into Number 10, Farage would take a massive dump on workers as soon as he got the chance.

Featured image via Brook Mitchell/Getty Images

By HG

Source link

CATEGORY

1. News

POST TAG

1. ditch
2. farage
3. for
4. labour
5. news
6. racist
7. reform
8. tells
9. unions

default watermark

Category

1. News