Within minutes, Ben Gvir threatens execution: "If the terrorist is caught alive, he will be executed"

Minutes later, the Israeli occupation's national security minister Itamar Ben Gvir, took to X:

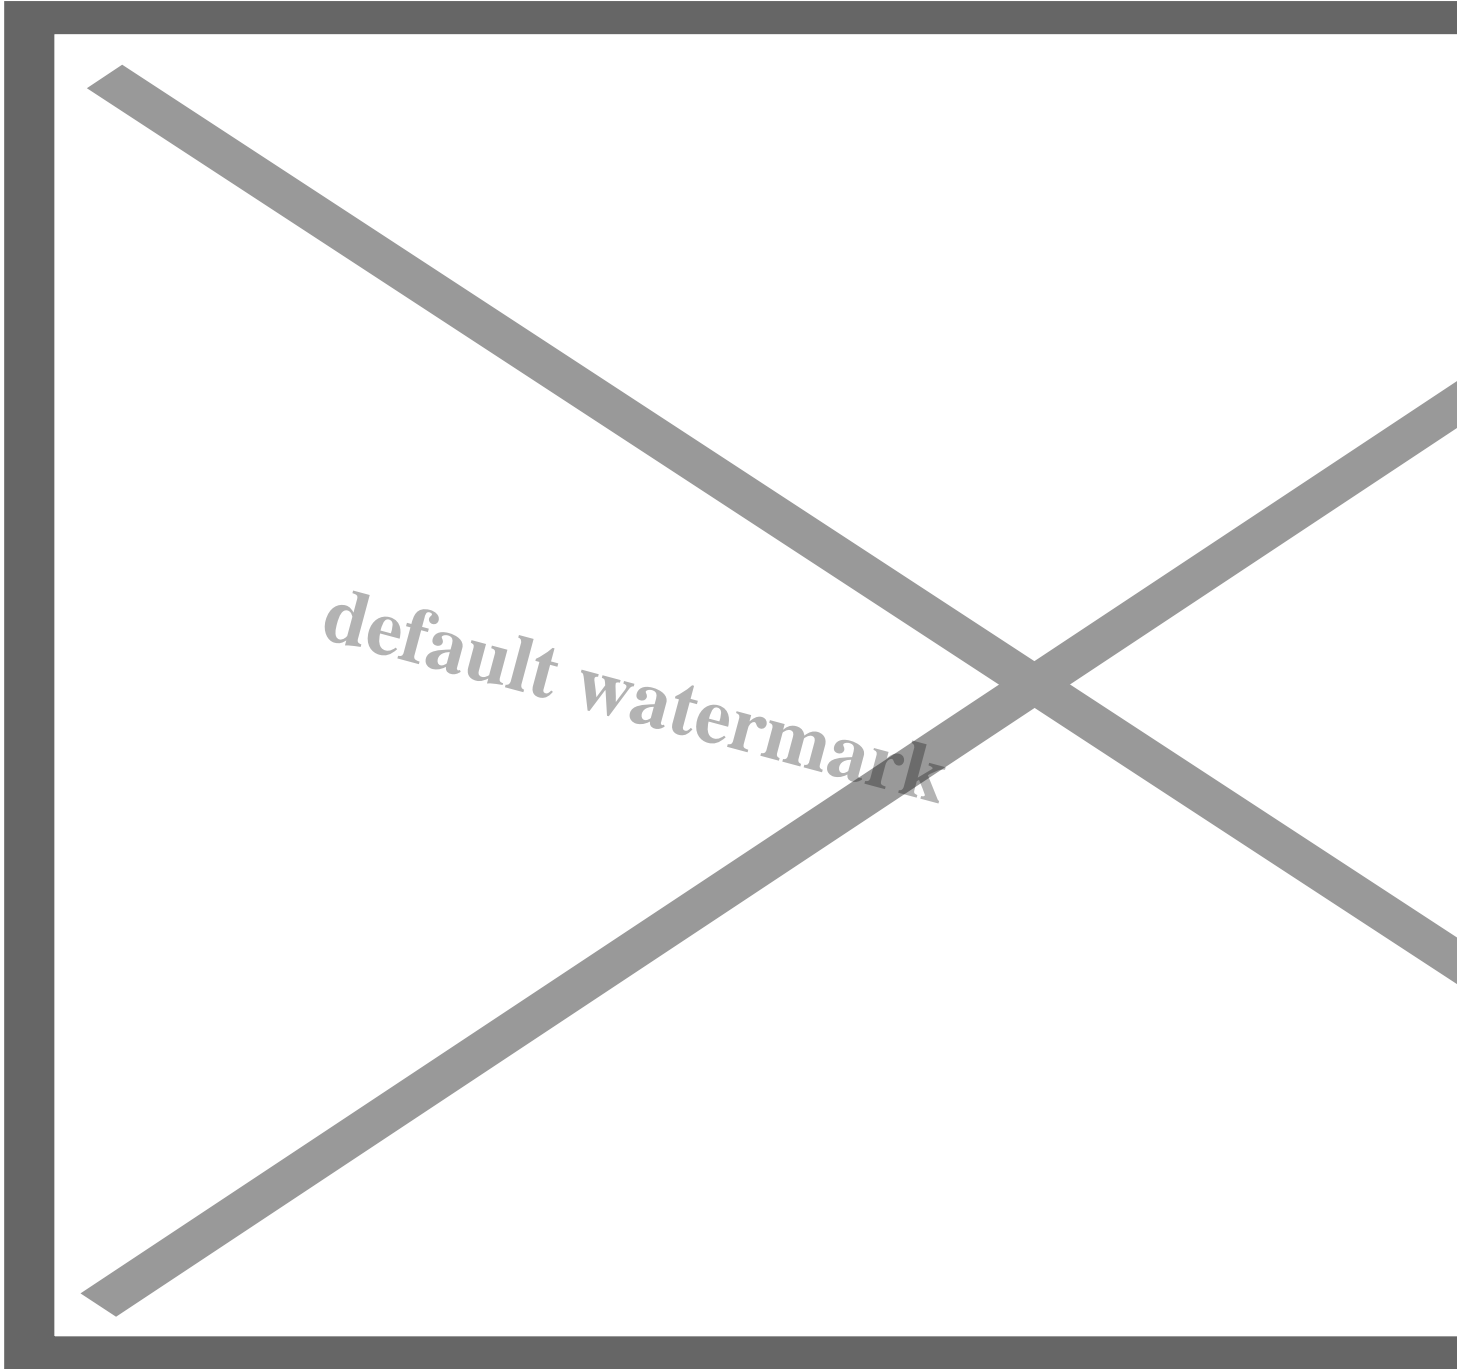

"If the terrorist is caught alive, he will be executed. This is the law, and we will demand its enforcement."

Israel

Ben Gvir has championed and celebrated the recently approved death penalty law, which applies to Palestinian prisoners only.

The occupation's police shot and killed one of the "suspects" at their home in Tayibe. They later reported arresting another suspect there, who they say was connected with the incident. The police claim "the arrested intelligence indicating that he had requested assistance in hiding. During the arrest, the police claimed he attempted to attack the officers with a bottle, but he was subdued and taken into custody without injury."

Smotrich and Ben Gvir continue to stir up hatred towards Palestinians

Yet again, it will be the occupation's word against that of Palestinians. And the arrest of this person in Tayibe is more than likely collective punishment. No details have emerged yet of the two killed by the occupation, or this third person who was arrested.

The occupation's finance minister, Bezalel Smotrich, took to X after the incident, blaming Arab-Israelis for the shooting. He claimed "a dangerous and extremist terrorist hotbed is growing that seeks to annihilate the state of Israel."

Smotrich, a lifelong illegal settler, has recently had an application for his arrest warrant filed by the International Criminal Court (ICC) prosecutor's office.

Photos of Ben Gvir later emerged on the Israeli occupation's police X post. It stated that Ben Gvir inspects the site of the terrorist attack in the Sharon region.

ISrael

The Israeli occupation police, illegal colonial settlers, military and government all work together. They advance the aims of the ethno-supremacist Israeli state. None of them are to be trusted or believed.

Israel carries out collective punishment against Palestinians on a daily basis, and this inciteful and dehumanising language used against them, by the occupation's police, Knesset members and others today will, no doubt, lead to yet more violence against the indigenous people of Palestine by Israeli colonists.
