The Gaza Tribunal established by former Labour leader Jeremy Corbyn and others to examine UK collusion in Israelâs genocide, is publishing a book of its findings.

Its findings are unequivocal: Rishi Sunakâs Tories and, especially, the Starmer regime are steeped in blood, guilt and collaboration.

One of the greatest crimes of our age

As publisher Pluto Press notes

the true scale of Britainâs complicity in one of the greatest crimes of our age. This groundbreaking inquiry brings together original testimony from Palestinian survivors, journalists, human rights campaigners, international legal experts and whistleblowers, to evidence both the human reality of the genocide, and the ways in which it was enabled by the British government.

The book is co-edited by Corbyn, anti-Zionist Israeli academic Neve Gordon and international law expert Shahd Hammouri with an afterword by author Sally Rooney.

It reveals the Tribunal's full findings after a two-day evidence hearing involving victims of the genocide along with leading human rights experts and campaigners. It is now available for pre-order as paperback and e-book, with publication scheduled for July 2026.
